

Walker Wayland Parking:

Approximately half way up Shortland Street (from the Queen Street end) is the very tall Vero Centre on your left. The next building is number 70 Shortland Street, as shown in the picture below. This is the Shortland Chambers building and the Atomic Café is the most visible tenant at street level (left hand side of the building)

The building at number 70 has a driveway to the left (where the person in the picture is). Turn in to this driveway but don't go down the ramp (it should be gated shut) – instead, take the entrance on your right (i.e. still at street level) to drive in under and beyond the building. Please see the picture below of the entrance and note that there is a height restriction of 1950mm.

Drive out into the open area and on your left you will see a number of car park spaces with Walker Wayland signs on the wall. Park in one of these spaces, lock your car and walk back to the gate. Turn hard right once through the gate and go through the glazed doorway marked "Walker Wayland Centre" overhead (this doorway and signage is partially visible on the left of the picture below). Proceed along the covered walkway to the lifts and head up to Level 7. Please contact reception on 09 968 4440 should you need any assistance.
